Clinical observation on treatment of acute bronchitis primarily with pricking cupping on back-shu points

Wei-dong, Xu; Yong-juan, Zhang; Jie, Yang; Xiao-xiang, Chen; Yong-xiang, Liu

August 2009

Periodical

Article

The article discusses a study which investigated the use of integrated traditional Chinese and western medicine, primarily with the pricking-cupping method on Back-shu points, to treat acute bronchitis. Sixty patients were observed and all were out-patient or in-patient cases. They were treated in the sitting prone or lying prone position. The clinical data show that the total effectiveness rate for the observation group is superior to that for the control group.

47834702